

First Annual Conference on:

Empirical Investigations in International Trade
Purdue University

Program:

Econometric Estimation of Cross-Country Differences in Industry Production Functions

by James Harrigan, Pittsburgh University

Can Barriers to Trade Make a Differential? An Investigation into the Sources of Inter-industry Wage Differences.

by Jon Haveman Purdue University

Geography and the Gains from Trade Policy Reform

by Tom Hertel Purdue University

Global Income Clustering and Trade in Intermediate Goods

by David Hummels University of Michigan

External Economies and Trade: An Empirical Analysis

by Pamela E. Lowry Illinois Wesleyan University

Comparing U.S. and U.K. Labor Specialization in Trade

by Keith Maskus, University of Colorado at Boulder

Learning by Doing and Protection of an Infant-Industry

by Eugenio J. Miravete, Northwestern University

Sectoral Growth Across US States: Factor Content, Growth, and Trade

by J. David Richardson and Pamela Smith, Syracuse University and University of Delaware

Trade Barriers and Trade Flows Across Countries and Industries

by Phillip Swagel, Northwestern University

As Assessment of Extending NAFTA to Other Major Trading Countries in South America

by Robert M. Stern, University of Michigan